Meel Group Logo

PRIMARY - WITH STRAPLINE

Our primary logo, shown here, should be used when introducing Meel Group. Where possible this version should be used in the first instance in communications. We also have options to allow the logo to be used over specific brand colours, shown right.

PRIMARY VARIATIONS - WITHOUT STRAPLINE

To allow us flexibility in it's use, we have variations that do not have the additional strapline, these can be used in instances where the primary strapline version has already been introduced or is not required.

Divisional Logos

FULL VERSIONS

The Meel Group logo is adapted to incorporate the core colour associated with that particular division, with the Meel 'o' changing in each instance. We have the stacked grey versions, as well as the landscape variations, with the preferred usage being the white on dark blue for marketing communications.

MEEL 'O' VERSIONS

We like to showcase our Group divisions where possible, and where the previous logos can be used to do this in certain circumstances, we have created a set of what we call our 'Meel 'o' logos', shown below. This essentially simplifies the business division logos to the simplest form possible, allowing use in numerous communications, as they can fit in small areas, which is ideal for when the other logo versions would not be suitable.

We have ensured we have a range of options when using these versions of the divisional logos so they are suitable for almost all instances. These are preferable over other options in all marketing communications.

AS A COLLECTIVE

These versions are perfect to be used together – where we might be highlighting the divisions alongside one another as part of a Meel communication to help visualise our business structure.

ELLIPSE VERSIONS

Where we need to incorporate the logos on white backgrounds, within text or columns or in other scenarios where it would be beneficial to contain the logo, we have these versions for use.
